CLASS CONCEPTS

Chief Compliance Investigator: Under general direction, incumbents are responsible for all investigative and administrative activities on a statewide basis; establish and direct investigative and enforcement activities based on department goals and objectives; review and evaluate operational efficiency and compliance with program policy and procedures; and directly supervise a large staff of subordinate Compliance Investigators in intake, mediation and investigative functions.

An example of a Chief Compliance Investigator position is at the Nevada Equal Rights Commission of the Department of Employment, Training & Rehabilitation. The incumbent reports to the Administrator of the division and is responsible for complaint resolution, regaining compliance, pursuing criminal prosecution, imposing administrative sanctions and penalties, or appearing before a hearings board or commission as required. The incumbent provides testimony before the governing body or in a court of law and provides Equal Employment Opportunity (EEO) training and guidance. The incumbent supervises twelve investigators who investigate employment discrimination complaints relating to race, national origin, color, creed/religion, sex (gender and/or orientation), age, and disability (ADA), in employment, housing and public accommodations.

Supervisory Compliance Investigator: Under general supervision, incumbents perform the full range of duties described in the series concept and in addition, act as a first-line supervisor. Incumbents review initial complaints, assign cases to lower level investigators and monitor and direct investigative staff regarding procedures and appropriate courses of action. Incumbents conduct the more complex or difficult case assignments characterized by their sensitive or high profile nature that may involve multiple program violations requiring an extensive knowledge of program rules and regulations as well as State and federal laws and guidelines. This class is distinguished from lower level investigators by supervisory responsibility for a staff of investigators that perform compliance/regulatory duties for a specific program area such as public assistance, real estate, insurance, employment discrimination or sexual harassment. Incumbents provide training to new investigators, prepare performance reviews, supervise and coordinate the investigative process and make final recommendations to the Chief or Program Administrator regarding investigative reports.

Compliance Investigator II: Under general supervision, incumbents perform the full range of duties described in the series concept in an investigative unit at the journey level. Duties are distinguished from the Compliance Investigator I class by greater complexity and independence in performing job assignments at the full journey level.

Compliance Investigator I: Under close supervision, incumbents perform the duties described in the series concept in a training capacity. Work is assigned through instructions and reviewed for accuracy. Progression to the next level may occur upon meeting the minimum qualifications, satisfactory performance and with the recommendation of the appointing authority.
