More frequent training will help insure that supervisors and managers remain up-to-date on relevant regulations and processes.

This change will help ensure that the employee is available to answer any questions, attend meetings, or report back to work.

  - (c) For up to 30 days to remove the employee from the workplace when he has committed or threatened to commit an act of violence;
  - (d) For up to 2 hours to donate blood; or
  - (e) To relieve the employee of his duties until the appointing authority receives the results of a screening test pursuant to NRS 284.4065.

An appointing authority may designate certain employees as essential and notify them that they are required to report to work.
