

PROGRAM INFORMATION

OVERVIEW

The Management Academy is a professional education opportunity for mid-level managers to enhance their knowledge and skills in competencies related to how we manage ourselves, our work, and the people we are entrusted to lead. It is a key new element in the State's commitment to ensure the citizens of Nevada that its government has a strong cadre of professional managers today and staff ready to transition into leadership and senior management positions whenever those vacancies occur. The Academy will also begin to develop a consensus around the expectations and role of managers in State government.

For our colleagues new to management, the Academy provides an introduction to practical skills and relevant knowledge, tools and techniques for directing staff and work. For our more experienced managers, the Academy will serve as a thoughtful refresher.

CURRICULUM

The curriculum is focused on three broad competencies: managing self, managing work and managing people. In concert with these three competencies, the Academy introduces a framework for managerial effectiveness that examines four common roles managers must play (see Figure 1). At various times, all managers play each of these roles and effective managers understand which role is most appropriate in a given situation. The specific topics featured in the Academy are organized by these four roles with ample discussion about effective execution.

In the classroom, participants engage in peer discussions of the competencies they need to succeed in their workplace today and in the future, while practicing new management skills and techniques. Examples of topics likely to be covered during the Academy include:

- Strategic Vision and Goal Setting
- Managing and Leading Change
- Project Management Execution and Process Improvement
- Manager's Role in Performance Management and Coaching
- Managing Conflict; Teams and Group Process
- Collaboration and Partnership Strategies
- Creative Problem Solving and Innovation in the Workplace

In addition to the topics listed here, participants have opportunities to interact with current State agency leaders.

Participants will also complete several self-assessments and build an individual management development plan to carry out additional independent learning. Participants will likely need to spend a limited amount of time between classroom sessions to complete assignments and prepare for the next one.
