III. COMMITTEE INTRODUCTIONS, MEETING OVERVIEW AND UPDATES

Members introduced themselves and their affiliations and Chair Evans welcomed everyone to the meeting. He apologized that they were unable to have a Chair in the south but this was caused by scheduling issues. Chair Evans took the opportunity to make some comments regarding the grievance process, noting it is a conflict resolution process. He noted that conflicts were best solved at the lowest level and allowed the parties to come up with a mutually agreeable solution and subsequently build a good working relationship. He stated that the process offered opportunities for the employee and the agency to meet and these included: the employee having 21 working days before filing the grievance to work it out with the agency and all the steps along the way; mediation; after the submission of the grievance to the EMC (Employee-Management Committee) either party could ask for a resolution conference giving the parties the opportunity to resolve the grievance.

He said that at the meeting they were all there to hear the employee and to listen to the agency's perspective. He reminded the parties that after the committee gave its decision they would still need to maintain an effective working relationship and to that end asked the parties to keep the exchanges respectful. He also reminded all parties, including those providing legal representation that the committee members were not lawyers but state employees appointed by the governor to provide the best possible decision based on their experience and knowledge and stated once again that he would appreciate mutual respect from all to move the process forward smoothly.

IV. PUBLIC COMMENT

Read into record by Chair Evans: No vote or action may be taken upon a matter raised during public comment until the matter itself has been specifically included on an agenda as an item upon which action may be taken. (NRS 241.020) Comments will be limited to five minutes per person and persons making comment will be asked to begin by stating their name for the record.

Chair Evans: Asked if there was any public comment in the north and south. There was none.
Chair Evans: Stated that as the Chair he had some discretion as to how the meeting would be run. He stated that he would like to hear both grievances together as they were related. He said they would allow both employees to tell their side of the story. He reminded both sides that committee members had read the packets. He also mentioned that committee members were not lawyers so it would be preferable to state exactly what they have to tell the committee so members could make a decision. He stated that in previous hearings the legal representatives had spent a lot of time on the issue of credibility for their witnesses. He said committee members had read the packets and it was clear that the employees filing the grievances were excellent employees with good records and long service. He encouraged their representatives in the interest of time that it was not necessary to use excessive time establishing their credibility. He referred to the agencies and noted that a lot of time was used asking witnesses to go into great detail about resumes. He reminded them that coming in an administrator or manager would have credibility. He stated that he would also prefer not to hear employees being questioned or asked to interpret or give their opinion on regulations or statutes. He explained that he was mentioning these issues as they anticipated more and more hearings and wanted to expedite the process.

Chair Evans: Indicated that though the grievances would be heard together they would vote on each of them separately. He added that Mary Newton had additional issues in an additional grievance. He indicated that the process would be that the employees would make a brief opening statement, advising the committee of the nature of the grievance, what they intended to prove in the discussion of the case and the resolution requested. He said that they would then turn it over to the agency which would make an opening statement and then they would return to the employees to present their information and any witnesses that they wanted to call. He said at any time in the process the committee members might ask questions. He reminded the employees that the committee wanted the process to be comfortable for the employees but at the same time it was important to get the information. He asked that the employees and their representatives and the agency representative go on camera across from the committee.

Chair Evans: Asked participants to identify themselves. He asked if there were any objections to having the packets entered as part of the record. He noted that there were no objections. He asked if there were any motions to consider. He indicated that they would start with Mary Newton and asked for the names of her witnesses. Ann McDermott, Chief Deputy Attorney General acting as counsel for the Taxicab Authority in Las Vegas objected to the participation of Ann Elworth Winner, the representative for Mary Newton on the grounds of confidentiality and the fact she was a former employee. Chair Evans: Asked the EMC counsel, Robert Whitney, Deputy Attorney General how they should proceed. Robert Whitney: Stated that Ann Elworth Winner had an obligation not to use confidential information and could be asked not to disclose. Chair Evans: Advised Ann Elworth Winner to proceed to represent Mary Newton. Ann McDermott: (inaudible 00:18:35). Chair Evans: Stated that she was asking her to stick to any information provided to her by the employee relevant to the grievance. Ann McDermott: (inaudible 00:19:09). Chair Evans: Asked her if there was anything in the evidence packet that would lead her to believe that she had done that. Ann McDermott: (inaudible 00:19:43). Chair Evans: Stated that if she brought up something like that then she should object and they would consider it then. Robert Whitney:

Chair Evans: Said he hoped the agency had noted that. He said that was information that came out relevant to the grievance but wasn't the issue of the grievance. Mandy Payette: Stated it had been shown that both Mary Newton and Linda Holtan were exemplary employees and that had not been the issue. She said change was not easy and when a new administrator came in there usually would be change. She said that she did not feel that the director abused his authority or failed to follow agency policies or procedures when instituting an 8 hours-a-day, 5-days-a week workweek. She said it had been established in testimony that the director had the discretion and authority to staff appropriately and manage the work schedules. She said for that reason she did not feel that the grievances met a level to approve the grievance. She said it was her opinion that they should move to deny the grievances. Tracy DuPree: Said he worked in an agency that just lost 4-10s recently. He said he felt their pain but felt it was up to the administrator to staff an agency as they saw fit.

Turessa Russell: Said she had no argument to grant the grievance but at the same time she did not understand how the change would have improved performance. Donya Deleon: Stated that she agreed with Turessa Russell in that she would like to grant the grievance because there was no reason to do it but because the law stated what it did she would go with that. Chair Evans: Said he felt the employees had done an excellent job justifying why they should be on the 4-10s with sound reasons. He said however when an administrator is hired they are hiring that administrator to be in charge and make decisions, to have the vision as to how the agency could be changed. He said if the administrator's reason for changing schedules was because he wanted them there at those specific hours then that was perfectly legitimate. He said he hoped the agency would revisit the employees' requests for the 4-10s and give the requests some consideration at an appropriate time. He stated at the end of the day it was the administrator's decision.

MOTION: Move to deny the grievance for Mary Newton as the grievant had failed to establish that the administrator had abused his authority or failed to follow the agency's policies and procedures when instituting an eight-hours-a-day, five-days-a-week workweek. It has been established through testimony that the administrator has the discretion and authority to staff appropriately and manage work schedules.
